

November 26, 2007

Dear Diary,

I am having so much fun being a Girl Scout! I am learning new things all the time. Last month at our meeting we talked about giving back to our community. We participated in two service projects. One was out at camp. We helped to clean out the debris around the pond so the animals have a safer home to live in. We also did a little exploring of the pond to see what animals live there. It's amazing how many creatures live in there. I am so glad we could help them. Of course we had a little extra time for a game of Red Rover.

The other service project we did was to help the Backpack Coalition. This company helps kids like me get the school supplies they need when their family doesn't have enough money. My troop collected 35 backpacks! I was so excited to be able to help these kids.

Always,
Adventuring Annie

